

Biodata: Sara Hendricks

Sara Hendricks teaches English at Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University in Japan. She has taught English in many different countries as well as to many different levels and ages of students. Her research interests include equality in the classroom, rapid vocabulary acquisition, and family language planning. She is currently working on her PhD in Educational Leadership from the University of Kentucky as she and her husband attempt to raise three trilingual children.