

Bio-Data: Ruth Carolina Betancourt González and Elizabeth Alvarado Martínez

Ruth Carolina Betancourt González studied Applied Linguistics, with a specialization in translation and an MA in Teaching English as a Second Language at the Universidad Autónoma de Nuevo León, México. She is a professor in the BA in the Science of Language. Her research areas are Applied Linguistics in translation and in English as a Second Language. She has published in several journals.

Elizabeth Alvarado Martínez holds a PhD in Education, a MEd in TESOL. She studied Applied Linguistics and the COTE. She teaches in the BA and the masters programs at the Universidad Autónoma de Nuevo León, México. She has published in several journals and is a member of the Cuerpo Académico de Lenguas Extranjeras en el Noreste de México.